He was abandoned in a neighborhood garden and found by his grandparents purely by chance. He and his younger sister, Debrah, were brought to Home Again children’s home to be cared for and educated. Missionary Profile: Laine Wagenseller

Most days, Laine Wagenseller has a phone to his ear or his eyes trained on a stack of contracts on his desk waiting for his expertise. But his busy life as a real estate attorney in Los Angeles is just his day job. His passion, which he discovered in 2010 after meeting Faith Kunihiro at BHTF Uganda, is to expand his understanding of just how much one individual can accomplish. “On my first trip to Uganda, I saw that Faith was accomplishing great things, but I didn’t relate it to my life or my God.” Then, using Kunihiro as his inspiration, Wagenseller facilitated a series of events that ultimately led to a young Ugandan boy’s seemingly miraculous transformation from having a disfiguring disability that prevented him from walking upright, into a normal, active young boy. [<https://news.yahoo.com/video/burned-ugandan-boy-receives-successful-060410570.html>] “God was working miracles—big miracles—faster than my doubts could bat them down!” Wagenseller realized he had underestimated his view of God, and that he could truly be an instrument of change for good with his new outlook. “I want to play a bigger role and to embrace a bigger God.” [Read Laine’s full BHTF story here.]
